

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XIX.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1892.

NO. 96

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

—The Senate passed a bill to repeal the Bracken county prohibition law.

—The caucus to nominate a democratic candidate for librarian will be held to night.

—Notwithstanding the constitution says it shall not, the Legislature goes right along passing legal bills same as ever. What is a constitution for, anyway?

—Hon. D. B. Edgerton presented an act to amend an act to protect game and small birds by changing the time in which quail may be killed from Oct. 20 to Feb. 1, to Nov. 10 to March 1.

—The House is hammering away on a bill to decrease the legal rate of interest from 5 to 3 per cent, but it had as well let well enough alone. The banks will continue to get all they can and refuse to lend to men who have not honor sufficient to pay what they contract to do.

—The resolution favoring government lands to farmers at 1 per cent, was tabled. Those who voted against tabling were Adams, Ayres, Charlton, Cullen, Dorman, Ferguson, Fink, Kirk, O'Mara, Pettit, Philip, Porter, Ryan, Stewart, Thomas (J. R.) and Tinsley. The bill was offered simply to make certain members, who claimed to be democrats, go on record.

—Mr. Myers has presented a bill to regulate the employment of females and minors. It provides that no child under 13 shall be engaged by any firm or corporation and none under 15 during school hours, unless the rudiments of an education has already been obtained. No minor of 18 or less and no female under 21 shall be employed in any manufacturing establishment more than 60 hours a week and no persons of these ages shall be employed where liquor is sold. The penalties are very severe and it passed the house with immediate effect.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—The taste with which little Chili was pressed by our government calls to mind the reply of the old dorky, who in the winter of 1847, when the thermometer was eight degrees below zero, started to the woods with an axe under his arm and a chunk of fire in his hand, his head drawn down under the collar of his coat. He was asked, "Hello Uncle, what do you want with fire this hot day?" To which he replied, "Oh, massa, I jes wants to raise a little smoke in de woods to drive off de musketers."

—The bill regulating elections in Kentucky, proposed in the Legislature, requires the polls to be opened at 7 a. m. and closed at 1 p. m. The present law requires them to be opened at 6 a. m. and closed at 7 p. m. and this is right. The time allowed under the existing law is none too long, while the proposed change would shorten it four hours, which would not give sufficient time in which to cast the vote in many of the larger precincts.

—A bill has been introduced in the Legislature prescribing the manner in which primary elections are to be held. The new constitution directs that not more than one election each year shall be held in this State, &c., and this shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. This, of course, relates to all elections that are to take place under the provisions of the constitution or the laws made in pursuance thereon. It is manifest that no such thing as a "primary election" was ever considered as a proper subject of legislative enactment by the framers of the constitution, and why the law makers should be inclined to meddle with things that are outside of their jurisdiction is a source of wonder to many who have read the bill. Why not prescribe rules for the management of conventions and the machinery by which politics generally shall be operated? It would seem to be the proper thing to do to let political parties manage things in their own way in a free country and if the people allow the managers and bosses to do wrong and misrepresent public sentiment, they have no one to blame except themselves. No one is compelled to take part in a primary election and no one is, or ever should be, deprived of the right to vote for whom he pleases, whether he be the nominee of a party or a private citizen, who has not even asked for an office. There is nothing in the constitution of the United States, or of any of the States of the Union, requiring the formation of political parties, and the less legislation there is upon subjects about which the people are free to act as they choose, the better it will be for all concerned.

—For fear of another mob Dr. Massie and John Sanders, convicted of murder, and John Costigan, convicted of manslaughter, have been removed from the two-n county jail to Frankfort.

—There is going to be trouble and a heap of it in New York. Democrats opposed to the early convention, called in the interest of Hill, have called a mass-meeting to be held Feb. 11, to protest against the holding of the State convention Feb. 22, the date fixed by the State committee.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Rev. W. L. Williams is still confined to his room and improves very slowly.

—Is it a fact that that company of Lincoln volunteers will not be called on to aid in punishing Chili?

—"Seah" has made its appearance to a rather alarming extent in several West End flocks and some owners have been compelled to "dip" their sheep.

—Misses Alice and Dollie Caldwell are again at home, their visit to Lebanon having been shortened by illness of their mother. Their brother accompanied them.

—Miss Kittie Bugh's school will close next Friday, without the usual grand commencement exercises, to which the last third of a session is too often almost entirely devoted to rehearsals.

—Should our Legislature see fit to ordain free travel over turnpikes, on Sunday would it not be well to specify the only circumstances under which the impious public shall hitch up and drive on that day?

—Mrs. Anna B. VanArsdale, of Harrodsburg, and Miss Mattie Davis, one of Mercer's little beauties, were here last week visiting relatives and proposed spending a few days in Stanford before returning home.

—The test week has been a destructive one to many fields of wheat and some sowers are anxious to sell their prospects for the seed they need. Plowing is being resumed by a few farmers on the slopes that have thawed out, but the north slopes and strips that are shaded forbid it yet.

—Agents of the hedge fence company, whose duties are in Garrard, are taking orders in this section and occasionally find patrons within the shadow of well timbered knobs, who are almost tempted to remove new post and railing to give place to the coming fence.

—Our horsemen were gladdened by the visit last week of a persistent veterinarian, who had come here for curbs and similar ailments, no cure no pay, and only $20 for his formula. He didn't find it necessary to buy a larger grip to carry away the tools that he "poked up" here.

—Fred are the discoverers of the Cincinnati Enquirer. Week before last it told us of a fellow who had set up a livery stable in his horse-drawed-out; last week it tells us of an 80-year-old dame whose second sight enables her to put in the time most enjoyably reading the Enquirer while cutting a bill set of new teeth. Next!

—A slight misapprehension led a couple of our good citizens into a brief but lively "scrap" a few evenings since, but prompt interposition of friends and explanations "calmed the turbulent waters" and again we have peace. Nevertheless another small tribute of toll to Judge Cannitz's mill, which like the merchant mill, has done little grinding since the holidays.

—Our mill resumed work last Thursday, after a month's suspension for various good reasons, and at sunset Saturday the crowd awaiting their turn for a turn was suggestive of a jam at the polls on election day. Davis VanArsdale, of Mercer, has charge of the engine-room, and proposes to whop things up till this country is again well supplied with good biscuits and hoe-cakes.

—Sergeant Eastham Tarrant, of the famous First Kentucky Cavalry, was here Saturday on the war path, gathering data for his history of that regiment, to which labor of love he is now devoting all his time. Prof. Tarrant is an accomplished, graceful writer and the public is promised a book of thrilling incidents, so entertainingly written as to give it prominence in a catalogue of the best "remembrances" of our late war.

—Mrs. Leah Woodson died at her home on Faye's Creek Saturday morning last, after a protracted spell of bronchitis, throughout which she suffered greatly, and found no ease except in a sitting posture, her head propped on a pyramid of pillows. From the beginning of her attack she despaired of recovery and welcomed death with cheerful, christian resignation. A few moments before she expired, with outstretched hands she exclaimed, "I am coming! Lay me down, I'm going to sleep." This was her last request. "Yes, asleep in Jesus" was her last utterance, in response to her attendant's assent, "You're going to sleep." Eighty-one years of age, she survived her husband and all of her five children except one, Mrs. Kate Snow, whose illness prevented her presence at her mother's bedside. "A good woman has gone to her reward" whose unvarying kindness to the poor about her will ever keep her name a sweet memory to all who knew her.

—Mrs. J. L. VanArsdale, who was Miss Bettie Chelf, died at Harrodsburg. She was the third wife of Mr. VanArsdale, who is not yet 40 years old.

—Tilton Hall, the noted desperado, has been convicted of murder in the first degree in Wise county, Va. His friends from Kentucky gathered around to release him, but the leader was placed in jail. Hall will be taken to Lynchburg for safety.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—Mr. Mat Holman has a new heir at his house.

—The sale of Mrs. M. A. Barnett, deceased, will be on Wednesday, Feb. 3.

—Miss Ora Wilmore, of Nicholasville, was visiting her mother, Mrs. Capt. Dillion.

—Uncle Arch Carson has had a sketch of his life printed to distribute among his friends and relatives. There is only one Uncle Arch in existence.

—The ladies of the Baptist church are soon to give an entertainment in the way of a lunch party. Will give date as soon as all the arrangements are completed.

—Mr. James Yantis shipped two cars of apples to Greensboro, N. C., Monday. Bastin & Collier have sold their knob farm advertised in the Interior Journal last, to Richard A. Smith.

—We hope everybody will be looking out for the ground hog, the little imp that some think brings the bad weather, but we are inclined to think the ground hog don't have much influence in that direction.

—Mr. John Motz and family and Mr. Sam Motz leave for Sherman, Texas, on Tuesday, whether they go to seek their future home. We wish them success. Mr. J. F. Holman has taken the road for a Baltimore boot and shoe house. Mr. S. L. Fish has moved into the house occupied by Mr. W. A. Carson, while Mr. Carson has moved into the house lately occupied by W. T. Saunders.

—Mr. R. S. Haines, of Baltimore, Md., has taken the place of Mr. Bettis at the depot. Mr. Bettis has gone to Middleboro. Mr. George Lee James, Gallatin, Belmont and Campbell Alexander have returned from Florida. None of them are in good health and Mr. James is confined to his bed with chills and fever. It seems that the southern climate does not agree with patients from here. Mrs. T. A. Gresham, of Stanford, was up visiting relatives Friday. Miss Sabra Hays is visiting Mrs. J. L. Holman and will remain with her during her husband's absence.

—Mr. R. L. Davis will open a school some time this month in the house of Mr. Collier on the pike near Bastin & Collier's store. We are glad to see Mrs. Sae Holman again after her severe and lengthy sickness. Mrs. M. A. Ross is quite ill at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. A. B. Bastin. Mr. H. B. Hansford has gone to Corbin on business for Mr. R. L. Collier.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—John Lewis died in the Piney Wood district Friday; buried Saturday.

—Col. Dick Bowling, of Middleboro, was on a short visit to this place Sunday.

—T. B. Thompson, an old friend of the writer, formerly of Letcher county, but now a prominent merchant of Virginia, is visiting friends here.

—A north bound freight train jumped the track at Pittsburg Sunday, killing several cattle in a 2-car load lot for a slipper from Claiborne county, Tenn. The cars were backed to this place and the dead removed.

—The night railroad office has, as far as an operator is concerned, been closed and hereafter there will be no night messages. A man will be furnished by the railroad company to sell tickets and take mail on and off. M. W. Timb has been the night man here for some time and his many friends will regret to lose him.

—Mrs. Mary Hagi, mother of Fred Hagi, died last Friday from the effects of grip, aged 67, and was buried on Cemetery Hill Sunday afternoon. Appropriate ceremonies by Rev. A. Denny, of the German or Swiss church here, in the language of their nationality. A large number of Swiss and Americans followed the remains to the grave.

—Four horse thieves were killed in Montana in an encounter with a posse of citizens.

—The alleged discovery of silver ore in the Jackpot claim, at Creede, Col., has caused a regular Black Hill stampede in that direction.

—Representative Davis, of Kansas, wants a public building in every town of 3,000 population, to be paid for by issuing treasury notes not exceeding $100,000,000 a year.

—Wm. Hesse, caught stealing a pair of pants from a store in Louisville, in which he had formerly worked, drew a knife and nearly severed his head from his body and died almost instantly.

—Franz and Rosalie Schneider, husband and wife, have been sentenced to hang at Vienna for a series of crimes almost without a parallel. The woman induced eight young girls to her home and after assisting her husband to ravish them helped him to kill them.

—The Turner-Parson feud has caused another double killing in Bell county. The Parson faction made an attack on the Turner gang's headquarters to avenge the murder of Murrel Parson and to arrest Turner if possible, but the latter's followers shot down Lee Davis and Will Jones, members of the attacking faction.

The Business Manager at Barboursville.

At the invitation of my good friend, Mr. Lewis D. Simpson, I made a trip to Barboursville, Friday, for the purpose of enlarging the Interior Journal list at that place and from the courteous treatment and liberal patronage I received, I felt that it was truly good to be there and it was with no slight degree of reluctance that I left the good capital of Knox.

I like Barboursville because it is inhabited by a splendid class of people who are as hospitable as can be found anywhere and who really seem to take pleasure in welcoming the stranger within their gates. 'Tis true that the town is not as lively as it once promised to be, yet it is a substantial business place and there are many who are glad that the boom did not get an entire hold on it. Real estate is valuable and what has changed hands recently has brought fair prices. Unlike Middleboro and Pineville, Barboursville has hardly a vacant house and for a town of its size it is wonderfully well built up.

With the assistance of Mr. Simpson, to whom I have referred above, I succeeded in adding a score or more subscribers to the "cheapest and best" in quite a short while and better than that, I dropped a goodly number of shining shickels in my trousers' pockets that I may probably find use for ere "Winter's chilly breeze" has left us.

Barboursville's situation has been of much advantage to her. Besides being a lovely location for a town it is surrounded partly by fine farming lands, while not far distant are mountains that literally teem with minerals. Then, too, the Cumberland River runs by and its waters could be easily used for power purposes.

The Queen City, as Barboursville is known, is to have another newspaper. Mr. Lewis D. Simpson, an elegant young man, thoroughly fitted for the business, will be the editor and the first issue will appear on Feb. 15th. It will be known as the Barboursville Herald and will be issued weekly.

It possibly does not become a youth who has so recently joined the list of Bachelors to speak of the fair sex, but I cannot resist mentioning the fact that the Queen City is entitled to the cake, bakery and all for pretty girls. The blue grass towns do not dare boast of handsomer young ladies than Misses Trusley, Costello, Dishman, et al and it does me good to even catch a glimpse of such beauties.

Mr. S. B. Dishman, a prominent democrat of this place, is an aspirant for the honor of delegate to the national convention. A gentleman of unswerving democracy, Mr. Dishman would fill the office with credit both to himself and his party.

Corbin, where the change of cars is made for Barboursville, is doing herself proud in the way of building. Only a year or so ago the present site was a dense forest, but now the place presents the appearance of quite a city. The carpenter's hammer is heard from early morn till nightfall and the result is a hundred or more houses are either just completed or under rapid construction. The L. & N. is building an immense round-house there, which is evidence of the fact that that company has faith in the place. Keep your eye on Corbin.

Knox and the adjoining counties are noted for the peculiarity of the names given the various creeks. In their borders, for instance, there is Fighting Creek, Stinking Creek, Hell for Certain Creek and many others bearing such unusual names. Why they were thus named no one seems to know, but it is generally conceded that at least Fighting Creek and Hell for Certain are not inappropriately christened.

It is claimed that a short while after the discovery of America a couple of French gentlemen came through that section near where Fighting Creek takes its head and were murdered by the Indians. They each bore large quantities of money of which the Indians grew suspicious and which they later on buried. Notwithstanding this happened two or three hundred years ago, I was reliably informed that up to the present day there are those who continually search for the money and who have spent a good portion of their lives in search of it.

C. A. Shelton has been appointed postmaster at Calhoun, Wayne county, and B. B. Hayes at Denmark, Russell county.

The rescued crew of the tug Edwin H. Webster went 44 hours with scarcely anything to eat and when taken off their sinking vessel their hands and feet were frozen.

In Washington Howard Schneider shot his wife and killed her younger brother, Frank Haulick, as they were coming home from church. The wife had refused to live with her husband.

The democrats of the House will attack the impurities of the McKinley tariff by separate bills, aimed at the most objectionable features of the law. This course was decided upon at a meeting of the democratic members of the Ways and Means committee.

OUR BILLY BRECKINRIDGE may not be able to see further into a mill-stone than some of the other distinguished members of Congress, but when he thinks he sees a fraud is being perpetrated, he has the courage to say so, no matter if the perpetrator does hold the highest office in the land. When he saw what a transparent attempt Mr. Harrison was making to secure votes, in his fiery message on the Chilian business, he demanded at once that the president be requested to give all the correspondence in the matter, stating dates of receipt, &c. He wanted the body to adopt his resolution without the usual reference to the committee, but Mr. Blount, the chairman of the committee on Foreign Affairs, stood pat on his pastern joints and declared that such a step would be almost an insult to him and the other members composing his committee. The resolution was finally referred, after much debate, but the wisdom of it is apparent now as it was then to everybody acquainted with Mr. Harrison's methods. The first campaign document was "fired at Congress Monday, and Thursday Mr. Harrison, after waiting to get all the applause he could from the gallery gods, sends another message, in which he admits that he was in receipt of Chili's apology at the time he sent his first message to Congress; but it was in a language he couldn't read and its translation was not given him till late in the evening. There was no special reason for haste in the matter, except Mr. Harrison did not want to lose his stump speech, after he had labored so hard on it. The whole thing shows the insincerity and desire for vain glory of Mr. Harrison and puts him into such a ridiculous attitude as will make the entire nation blush with shame for such a president, and if his party has any respect for itself this business should make his re-nomination an impossibility.

To the average legislator the giving up of his free pass is like pulling his eye teeth and he lays awake at nights thinking how he can get around the constitutional inhibition. He can't use them and hold his office, that is evident, but the new fundamental law, which is fearfully and wonderfully made, places no restrictions as to the families of legislators and other officers. Consequently the law-maker, who wants to see his family, realizes that he cannot go to them, without going down in his pocket after the where-withal, but they can come to him on the coveted piece of pasteboard. That is good for a free ride. It is charged that Mr. Kramer, of Louisville, the chairman of the committee on railroads in the House, has a book of these passes in blank that he kindly issues to the members who ask for them. Mr. Kramer denies the book part, but confesses that he had passes for his family and others to come to Frankfort. This gentleman, it will be recollected, got the chairmanship of this committee in reward for his vote, and this incident alone proves the correctness of what the Louisville Times said of the unfitness of the appointment at the time.

The joint committee appointed to examine the Eddyville penitentiary reports against its conversion into a house of reform because it is too large, out of the way and unsuitable, and that it is not practical now for the State to provide a house of reform. It is the opinion of the committee that the prison is an elephant of large proportions and that its building was not only a mistake, but a job of the worst kind. The Frankfort penitentiary will probably be enlarged for the benefit of the ever increasing army of convicts, and the Eddyville fraud be permitted to quietly die.

The newspaper business is more generally overdone in Kentucky than in any other State of equal population and resources, and it is only a question of time when there must be a thinning out in journalistic fields.—Lexington Leader. Bro. Roberts is eminently correct, but men who want to go into the newspaper business seem to take no thought of the morrow. Newspapers are starting up almost weekly and many of the starters find sooner than they can realize that Man's a vapor, full of woes, Starts a paper, up he goes.

ALREADY there are two candidates for democratic elector in this district.—J. Mort Rothwell, of Garrard, and Col. Nat. Gaither, of Mercer. In his card of announcement Mr. Rothwell says: "If I am chosen, I promise to be a most zealous and faithful worker in the democratic ranks and will devote my whole time to the cause and will speak in every county of the district or anywhere I am sent."

The Jessamine Journal insinuates that certain semi-weeklies get their inspiration from the Louisville Times. The Hopkinsville Kentuckian, the Danville Advocate and the Bourbon News ought to resent this base imputation by saying that the source is worthy and that any inspiration is better than its entire absence, for which the Journal has been noted since the retirement of Col. McCarty.

Two bills at least have been introduced in the Legislature that ought to become laws. One is to increase the amount constituting larceny to $50 and the other is to require juries in criminal cases to decide simply whether the accused is guilty or not and then let the judge fix the punishment according to the law and the facts. This latter course prevails in the U. S. courts and in those of many of the States, where hung juries are very rare, while under our system it is almost the exception for the juries to agree in an important case. The other law would do much to stem the penitentiary tide, which makes new institutions and enlargements continually necessary. If the Legislature will pass these two bills we believe the people will look with charity on many of their other acts of omission and commission.

Hon. D. G. Conner says he will be a candidate for Congress in the bloody 11th and that he will likely be opposed by Dr. Neil, Col. Silas Adams, Frank Finley and John Wilson, though he has heard that the latter is thinking of retiring from public life. Mr. Colson is a bright young man and a clever one, and we should like to see him gratify a worthy ambition, but we would advise him not to lay the flattering unction to his soul that John Wilson will not meet him at Philippi. John Henry isn't pretty, neither is he a greater statesman than others of the candidates named, but when it comes to working the wires and manipulating conventions, he takes not only the cake, but the whole bakery.

Col. C. E. Sears withdraws from the editorial management of the Louisville Post in the following curt lines: "For reasons which are satisfactory to the owners of The Post and to myself, my relations with the paper are hereby dissolved." There is no explanation of the matter, but it is thought that the directory had an idea that the colonel was entirely too rapid to be permitted to run longer at large. He is a fine writer and somewhat of a genius, but his whole nature seems to have been warped by nursing an unexplained and venomous hatred of Henry Watterson and the Courier-Journal.

PRIVATE ALLEN, of Mississippi, made one of the most humorous speeches ever listened to in Congress, in support of his resolution to increase the Committee on Foreign Affairs from 13 to 75. He related that the members were entirely too overworked and after having some fun at their expense he gave the president a few pointers on the code of honor, which requires that a person who sends a challenge or an ultimatum should at least wait for an answer from the person challenged. The speech was full of humor and sarcasm and took the House by storm.

Over 200 representative colored men met at Frankfort to petition and remonstrate with the legislative committee to report unfavorably on the bills to require railroads to furnish separate cars for their race, and they acted by such a manner as to create a feeling in their behalf. We are with our colored friends in this fight. There is no crying need for such a law as experience has shown that as a general thing the negro is a much better behaved passenger than the white hoodlums who are permitted to run at large in any car they see fit.

The Louisville Times, whose editor is remarkable for his terseness and aptness of expression, tells the whole tale in these few lines: Samson Hill may pull down the pillars of the democratic temple in which Cleveland is enshrined, but he himself will be found in the ruins. If the purpose of that meeting of Cleveland democrats in New York city last night is carried out, when the Chicago convention meets neither Hill nor Cleveland will be in it.

The Newport Journal, in giving a list of available presidential tickets names Urey Woodson, of the Owensboro Messenger, as vice-president on one of them. We object, for the reason that Mr. Woodson does not possess an ambition with a sliding scale. It would be too great a come-down to succeed Morton, after having been president of that greatest of all bodies, the Kentucky Press Association.

It is stated that the preparation for the war, which the administration seemed determined to thrust on Chili whether she apologized or not, cost $2,000,000, most of which goes for naught. But what would Harrison care for the nation's money or the lives of the nation's defenders so they procured him a re-nomination and election?

The Lexington Press Association recommends May 10, 11 and 12 for the meeting of the Kentucky Press Association, with a big programme, and suggests that the democratic State convention be also held there that week. Pretty good idea, if Lexington can accommodate such a crowd.

The president has notified Chili that everything is satisfactory and peace reigns supreme again. But Mr. Harrison's feelings were sore after kicking "the dead horse" and tells Liza privately that he sees when they are right when they say he made an ass of himself.

MURAT HALSTEAD is back from his European tour and with a two-months' accumulation of venom is firing it at the helpless readers of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

The republican committee has fixed upon Louisville as the place and March 30th as the day for the meeting and the State Convention to send delegates to National Convention. All persons without regard to past party affiliations, who endorse the principles of the republican party, are invited to unite under this call. The basis of representation shall be one delegate for every 100 votes, which gives Lincoln 13, and they are to be chosen on the call of the county committee. Each congressional district will be entitled to two delegates and two alternate delegates to the National Convention, to which will be added four from the State at large, of whom Col. W. O. Bradley will certainly be one.

The whipping-post bill is up again, as usual, in the Legislature. We would like to see it become a law, but as there is no probability of it, and knowing that a majority of the record makers would not be convinced of its necessity, the one rose from the dead, it is useless to argue in its favor.

NEWSY NOTES.

—At Honey Brook, Pa., dynamite exploded in a shanty where 20 Hungarian miners were eating dinner. Two were killed, eight fatally injured, two are missing and the others are more or less hurt.

—The police and socialists at Chelsea had something of a Chicago riot Sunday. A woman who insisted on talking was arrested, and attempted to rescue her and the reserve force had to be called to save the police.

—Oak Grove, the home and stock farm of M. T. Threlkeld, near Harrodsburg, was destroyed by fire. Loss $5,000, insured for $3,000 in the Queen. Mr. Threlkeld is the owner of that good campaigner, Emma T., 2:24.

—Judge Boyd, of the 15th judicial circuit, is here on legal business. The rumor that he is to resign his office is groundless, but that he will not run again in the famous Barbourville district is well known among his intimate friends.—Frankfort Cor. Times.

—Mr. P. R. Rhy, proprietor of the Old Hickory Distillery, has sold to Messrs. Dant & Carter, of Louisville, 4,360 barrels of whisky, 2,800 of the 1891 crop and 3,500 to be made this season. The entire amount paid is something like $100,000.—Anderson News.

—John Boyd, a negro, has been arrested for wrecking a passenger train of the Western railway of North Carolina, by which 20 people were killed. He made a confession to a detective before being arrested, and money and jewelry which he secured from the dead have been recovered. A reward of $10,000 was offered by the railroad company.

—Chili's surrender may be briefly analyzed as follows: She withdraws and apologizes for the Latta letter; she waives the request for Egan's recall; she deeply deprecates the Baltimore affair; expresses warm willingness to make any and every reparation that is "just" and offers to leave it to either our Supreme Court or outside arbitration to determine what is just. It is not easy to see how she could further go.

PUBLIC SALE.

A SMALL BOYLE COUNTY FARM. On Feb. 2, 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m. I will offer at public sale, on the premises, a small farm of about 100 acres, situated in Boyle county, near the town of Stanford. The land is in a good state of cultivation, moderately improved, and will make a good home. Sale positive.

LOCUST GROVE.

STOCK FARM

FOR SALE.

The most fertile and richest soil in Lincoln county, comprising 100 acres of Blue Grass land, situated about two miles from Stanford, the county seat of Lincoln. Fronted by the Shelby City turnpike, and accessible to the Louisville and Nashville turnpike. This is one of the best stock farms in the Blue Grass section and is a rich source of cultivation. Abundance of water for all purposes. Soil is fertile and is suitable for the growing of hemp, tobacco, corn and wheat. The land is so located so that it can be divided and two fine farms made. The improvements are a large and commodious dwelling, a convenient stock barn, &c. for best fruit of all kinds. Map of Lincoln county, apply to E. H. JONES, Stanford, or J. H. RILEY, Pineville.

H. T. BUSH,

REAL ESTATE AGENT.

Stanford, Ky.

These are a number of FARMS for sale in the very best of sections, land in mountain country. These farms are all well improved and good rich lands, ranging in size from 50 to 100 acres. Considering their location, their richness and fertility, and the convenience of the turnpike and railroad, that bring markets right to our doors, they are cheaper than the lands of any other country in the vicinity. It is usually a farmer the county over, unless from a distance.

The county is divided with turnpikes running in every direction. There is not a place that is not reached by a turnpike. We have the Knoxville branch of the L. & N. R. R. dividing the county from East to West and the C. & O. R. R. from North to South. We have a market for all our grain right at home, and the development of the mountain regions of Eastern and South eastern Kentucky is almost certain. The great South by railroads has created such a demand for all kinds of cereals and provisions that we can scarcely retain enough for home consumption.

The people are prosperous, generous and kind, believing in Christianity and education. There is not a neighborhood in the county but has a good school-house.

Stanford, the county seat of Lincoln, is a prosperous little city of about 1,500 inhabitants and is the great showery from the North and Northeast South and from the Northwest to Southeast, and standing as it does gazing right into the bosom of the undeveloped mountains of Southeastern Kentucky has led up by the whole Blue Grass region of the State with railroads running through it to all points of the compass, makes it naturally one of the best located towns in the South. We have a large school, we have a Female College, a large brick building, with over 100 pupils in attendance and under the principalship of Prof. J. M. Hubbard, is in a flourishing condition. We also have a Seminary that is a good school, with Prof. B. F. Eakman at its head. We have one of the best Public School buildings in this section of the State, with over 100 pupils in attendance, and with other good private schools, you see our school facilities are excellent.

We have a church business, representing every denomination, with a full corps of ministers of high class talent and are doing a better business than any class of men in the city. I have tried to make this statement as facts, without any exaggeration or coloring, as those who know will bear me out, and those who wish to see a pleasant home at a low price, and locate among a good people with all the best surroundings would do well to call and see me before purchasing elsewhere.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock.....$200,000

Surplus.....18,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford, under the provisions of the National Bank Act depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $200,000. Five annual statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1858, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1863, and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1882, has had practically an uninterrupted existence of 32 years. It is better supplied now with facilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, individuals, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of Cordele's Transformation From a Collard Patch.

(To the Editor Interior Journal.)

CORDELE, Ga., Jan. 26.—My attention has just been called to a communication from Montezuma, Ga., to the Journal, under the date of January 10th, signed Happy Jack. He appears to be very much amazed at the "monstrosity" here in South Georgia, and an undercurrent of ridicule runs through his letter as he describes the evolution of a city from a collard patch.

I do not wish to reply to Happy Jack, but I do wish to state a few facts which he omitted and I hope you will give him the same prominence you gave his communication.

Happy Jack says that Cordele's population is 2,700, that it has sewerage, water works and electric lights, a $50,000 opera house and a $100,000 hotel. These are facts that the conscientious Happy Jack can swear to. But I wish to add the following facts and, like Happy Jack, I am perfectly willing to make an affidavit to them if necessary:

Cordele was incorporated and elected her first municipal officers in January, 1880. She is, therefore, in the beginning of her fourth year of corporate existence. The cotton factory here is one of the most successful in Georgia. The Giano Factory is one of the largest in the State. Either of these factories has $100,000 capital and are making good profits. The machine shops and iron foundry are running day and night and giving employment to a number of men. Other smaller industries, such as bottling works, a barrel factory, cider works, etc., are flourishing.

There are 15 brick stores occupied by dry goods, groceries, drugs, hat, shoes, clothing and other stocks. There are 10 or 12 wooden stores occupied by prosperous merchants. Three livery stables do good business here.

I came near forgetting to mention that there are two banks here with ample capital.

Best of all there is a splendid country to back the place and everything points to a great future for the "Magic City of the Pines."

The wiregrass section of Georgia sends greeting and best wishes for the continued prosperity of the "Blue-grass Belt" of Kentucky. Yours Very Truly, T. J. Brooks.

Rich Without Money.

Many a man is rich without money. Thousands of men, with nothing in their pockets, and thousands without even a pocket, are rich. A man born with a good, sound constitution, a good stomach, a good heart and good limbs, a pretty good head piece, is rich. Good bones are better than gold, tough muscles than silver, and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function are better than houses and land. It is better than a landed estate to have the right kind of a father and mother. Good breeds and bad breeds exist among men as really as among herds and horses. Education may do much to check evil tendencies or to develop good ones, but it is a good thing to inherit the right proportion of faculties to start with. The man is rich who has a good disposition, who is naturally kind, patient, cheerful, hopeful and who has a flavor of wit and fun in his composition. The hardest thing to get on with in this life is a man's ownself. A cross, selfish fellow, a despondent and complaining fellow, a timid and care-burdened man, these are all born deformed on the inside. They do not limp, but their thoughts sometimes do.—Source Unknown.

John G. Pulliam, of the Harrodsburg Sayings, has this to remark about R. C. Nickols' curl: "His procedure in this town is an open secret to everybody and when he left, the newspapers kindly threw the palladium of charity about him. We don't think he has yet quite recovered from his mental disorder, or he would have forborne to appear in print on such a delicate subject. We would advise him to quit drinking 'moderately' and keep himself as far away from newspapers as possible, or he may find it necessary to hold some of the boys in this neck of the woods 'individually' responsible."

Measurements have shown that the size of a human hair depends much on its color, and that they vary from the 50th to the 100th part of an inch. Blonde hair is the finest and red is the coarsest. A patient German savant, who counted four heads of hair of different colors, but of equal weight, reports as follows: Number of hairs on the blonde head 140,000; on the black 105,000; brown, 100,000; red, about 90,000.

At the Vanderbilt ball, Mrs. Ogden Mills wore an amount of jewelry that would have blocked the sidewalk in front of any jeweler's store in which it had been exhibited. She literally dazzled beholders with her display of diamonds and sapphires and the value of the gems she wore ran up into the hundreds of thousands.

The longest animal known to exist at the present time is the roppal, which averages 100 feet in length. The smallest is the nomad, which is only 1-12,000 of an inch in length.

"Benlah!"

"Well, Jared?"

"You will not think me presuming, I hope," said the youth, his lip and chin quivering nervously, "now that you have filled my heart with joy by the promise you have just made, if I—"

"If you want, Jared?"

"If I claim the privilege usually accorded to an accepted lover, and—"

"And what?"

"And—"

"Yes! And—"

"And ask you for a kiss, Benlah?"

"It may be a strange thing to confess, dearest," he said, after the 27th—possibly it might have been the 37th—"but I—I never before in my life kissed a girl!"

The beautiful maiden lifted her blushing cheek from his shoulder.

"Jared," she said, as the crimson waves chased each other across her happy face and she toyed shyly with the top button of his coat, "you must have been raised in Lancaster?"

The Holy Land has in its fair bosom a lake which is ever receiving but never giving. And that one fact seems to set it apart from all other lakes that sparkle and shimmer in the sunshine and send their waters out to gladden the world. Alone of them all, history has written the story of the results of its selfish existence in its very name—"The Dead Sea."

It is said that a woman in Toronto, Ontario, after burying her seventh husband, erected a monument to the whole lot. It consisted of a marble head with the index finger pointing to the sky, and on the base, instead of names, ages, etc., were the words "Seven up."

A bar of iron worth $5, worked into horseshoes, is worth $10; worked into needles is worth $50; made into pen-knife blades it is worth $3.25; made into balance-springs for watches it is worth $250,000.

Ethan Allen, Jr.

Mr. S. B. Woodward, of Saratoga, who sold Ethan Allen, Jr., to W. T. Woodward, 25 years ago, says: "Twenty-seven years ago I was given Quinn's Ointment has fully demonstrated that it is the most reliable remedy that I know of. I recommend it to all horsemen."

Safe and Reliable.

"In buying a rough medicine for children," says H. A. Walker, a prominent druggist of Ogden, "I have found it to be Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. I particularly recommend Chamberlain's because I have found it to be safe and reliable. See and see bottles for sale by Dr. M. L. AN INTRODUCTION

To the through far service of the Wisconsin Central Line, Southern Pacific Railroad, it is unnecessary to say its advantages and conveniences have been fully established. It is the only route to the Pacific Coast over which both Pullman Vestibule and Pullman Tourist Cars are operated from Chicago via St. Paul without change. Through train leaves Chicago every day at 10:45 p. m. The traveler on this route passes through the most picturesque, interesting and prosperous belt of country in the Western World. There is a scenery with many striking contrasts that range from the rolling prairie and the prime forest level to the wildest passes of the wildest mountains in the world.

There is a series of the noblest cities, towns and villages of every variety and size, from the heart of the tiny farm, upward, the richest mines in the world, the greatest and most interesting pastures, the wildest scenery on the Continent, famous as well as a nightmare; hills, snows and peaks, towering to the magnificent heights of the Rocky Mountains, and the prime forest level to the wildest passes of the wildest mountains in the world.

Entrain via the Wisconsin Central Line for St. Paul, Minneapolis, Astoria and Portland (via Chicago) at 5:00 p. m. daily with the famous Vestibule Sleepers and the Central's famous dining cars attached.

Cough Following the Grip.

Many persons who have recovered from a gripe are now troubled with a persistent cough. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it. It is a powerful cough and relieves the lungs, effecting a permanent cure in a very short time. See and see bottles for sale by Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

Hicklin's Arnica Salve.

The best salve for all the ills of the body, such as sprains, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, chilblains, rheumatism, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. R. Penny, Stanford, Ky.

The First Step

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think—can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into serious prostration. You need a nerve tonic and Electric Bitters will find the best remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this Nerve Tonic and Electric Bitters. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored and the liver and kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50 cents at A. R. Penny's drug store.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Light House.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Tresselt are keepers of the Gray Light-house at Sand Beach, Mich., and are the daughter of a year old last April was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew more rapidly and she was a mere "bundle of bones." Then she read Dr. King's New Discovery and after she read two and a half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold. You may get your trial bottle free at A. R. Penny's drug store.

La Grippe.

No healthy person need fear any of the numerous forms of attack of la grippe properly treated. It is much the same as severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. Remain quietly at home and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed for a severe cold and a prompt and complete recovery is sure to follow. This remedy also combats any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it during the epidemic of the last winter, we have seen in almost every single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia, one and one bottle has cured. Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pill

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation, indigestion for men, women, children, "bilious," "mildew," "stomach," "fifty doses 25 cents. Sample at A. R. Penny's.

Beginning with the New Year, it is customary to form new resolutions and as far as possible profit by experience of the past. The general credit system having been universally condemned by both debtor and creditor as a curse to our country, one of our young grocery merchants has concluded that it will be wise and profitable to both himself and his customers to steer clear of this reef that has made shipwreck of so many in the past and at the same time offer such inducements to his customers that they can not afford to buy their groceries elsewhere. For example he will sell you
